Emmy-Award Winner Anne Ryder Joins Ranks of Voice Scouts

INDIANAPOLIS – June 14, 2004 – Emmy-award winning anchor, TV reporter, columnist and speaker Anne Ryder can now add a new title to her name: Voice Scout. Ms. Ryder joined the ranks of Indianapolis-based Voice Scouts at the beginning of June. Voice Scouts provides nationwide voice and on-camera talent for the corporate, radio, TV and multi-media industries.

"I'm drawn to Voice Scouts by its excellent reputation for quality and ethics. As a journalist, I gravitate to stories that touch the heart and make a difference," said Ryder. "As a lifelong resident of Central Indiana, I know the quality of its people and its business community. I'm thrilled by the prospect of lending my voice to the good work being done here."

Becky Wilmes, president and owner of Voice Scouts, is delighted to have Anne Ryder as her newest Voice Scout talent. "Having Anne Ryder as a Voice Scout is an awesome opportunity for our clients, and we're thrilled to welcome her," Ms. Wilmes said. "Her talent and presence, both on and off-camera, will likely interest some of our biggest corporate clients."

Anne Ryder worked at the NBC affiliate in Indianapolis for 20 years, becoming the longest-tenured anchor in the station's history. She was also the only American reporter in more than a decade to be granted a sit-down interview with Mother Teresa. It was the last interview the nun gave before her death.

Ms. Ryder created and produces "Hope to Tell" and "In an Instant," through which she tells stories of hope and inspiration. She maintains an affiliation with WTHR, Channel 13 to provide freelance special reports and has earned numerous national, regional and state honors for her reporting, including the prestigious Gabriel and Wilbur awards, the Edward R. Murrow award and eight Emmy awards.
